Late Night Comedy Writing Samples

The Court Jester Opening Monologue: Hello, hello. Welcome, welcome. We got a new segment on the show called "congratulations to" and "most like or likely to", let's see how it works. First off, congratulations to Texas Senator John Cornyn and San Diego State Aztecs men's basketball coach Brian Dutcher, for who looks most like not funny Steve Martin. Congratulations to singer Brittany Spears for most likely to be tricked by a utility company into paying the additional "cold water bill". Congratulations to Pennsylvania Governor John Fetterman's face for most likely to be the cover boy for AngryConsumer.com. Congratulations to GOP Senator Marjorie Taylor Green for being most likely to have taken the least amount of time out of any suburban mom to decide to add her maiden name to her Facebook page. Congratulations to actress Jane Lynch for most likely to be the most abrasive member of Reese Witherspoon's book club. Congratulations to senators Elizabeth Warren and Diane Feinstein for most likely looking like two people who can recite to you the entire Dewey Decimal System. Lastly, congratulations to actor and wrestler Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson for being the only guy on Earth who actually brags about failing to make it to the NFL. A trucker plans to sue Circle K after he spilled his Polar Pop on his shirt suggesting the cup was punctured. If he wins, Circle K has to change its logo to: "America's Thirst Stop and Pours". Michelle Obama wants to force elementary schools to eat healthy again. That's got to be more annoying hear again than being in the seat next to Ed Sheeran on a roller coaster. (Ed Shereen voice) "ooooohhhooooohohhhhooohhhhh (from that song head to toe) "Ed, you know we're going uphill right?"